[ ] Comment:

a. The units mentioned in [ ] Comment have old Polish unit designations. They are believed to now have other designations. However, the 57th and 58th Inf Regts were identified in POZNAN in October 1947, but have not been reidentified since. Further information is required as to whether the Polish infantry units reportedly quartered in the barracks mentioned in para 1 and para 2 were elements of the 57th and 58th Inf Regts or whether they belonged to hitherto unidentified units. 25X1

b. The barracks in the suburb of MIKULAY were reported to be occupied by component units of a tank regiment in October 1947. Polish tank troops, but no tanks, were observed in the former German Engineer Barracks in POZNAN in April 1948. The report confirms that Polish tank units are stationed in MIKULAY, but does not give any clues as to [ ] these units. 25X1

c. The observed fuel depot is believed to be the fuel depot of the POZNAN military post.

d. The infantry and tank units observed in BIEDRUSKO at the former German North-Camp troop training grounds were presumably there for the duration of maneuvers. They may have been units from the POZNAN military post. It is also possible that component units of the 5th Inf Div, which is assumed to be in that area, are permanently stationed in BIEDRUSKO.
